Martyrdom Details and History

"They intentionally killed my husband. I want them to be hanged."

Al Mamun Amanat was born on November 17, 1984 in Muradnagar, Comilla. He lost his parents at a young age. He went to the city of factories and mills, Narayanganj, to build his own future. After completing his studies from a government college, he started a cloth business. He married Hasina Momtaz. They have two daughters. Martyr Amanat was the former general secretary of the Narayanganj College branch of the Chhatra Dal. "None of us have the ability to fill the void left by my brother in this world."

How Martyr Amanat Was Killed

On August 5, the day of Sheikh Hasina's resignation, Mohammad Amanat (40), a resident of Jalkuri, Narayanganj, left home in the afternoon and went missing. Before leaving, he told his wife, Hasina Momtaz, that he would return at night. However, his family could not trace him afterward. After nine days, his body was identified at the morgue of Dhaka Medical College Hospital. He had been shot so brutally that his entire face was disfigured, making it difficult for his wife to recognize him even after multiple attempts. Posters were printed to find Amanat, and finally, on August 14, his aunt identified him at the hospital morgue.

On August 15, at 9:00 PM, after his funeral prayer at the Chashara Shaheed Minar premises, his body was buried in the family graveyard. His wife, Hasina Momtaz, stated, "Amanat was shot on the 5th. His body also bore signs of other injuries. The hospital informed us that he was brought in dead that very day."

During the funeral, Asif Mahmud, one of the coordinators of the anti-discrimination movement, remembered Amanat, saying, "None of us have the ability to fill the void left by my brother. May the Almighty accept him as a martyr."

A Destitute Martyr's Family

"Though he had farmland in the village, he had no house to live in."

Martyr Amanat married Dr. Hasina Momtaz at a mature age. Their family was blessed with two young daughters, Arohi (8) and Ayra (1). Despite owning farmland in his village, Amanat did not have a house there. As a result, he lived in a rented house with his family in Narayanganj, a city of commerce. His wife has stopped practicing medicine due to their tragic loss, and Amanat was the sole breadwinner of the family. His sudden death has left his two children orphaned and their lives shattered. The family is now facing severe financial hardship.

His grieving wife said, "We have two children. What will we do now? Where will we go? Everything is ruined."

Martyr's Wife Remembers Him

Dr. Hasina Momtaz, the wife of Shaheed Amanat, said, "My husband left home on August 5. Even as the whole day passed, he did not return. We became extremely worried and started looking for him everywhere. When we couldn't find any trace of him, we searched the morgue at Dhaka Medical College Hospital.

The brutal police and terrorist Chhatra League shot him and beat him so severely that his face was completely deformed. That's why I couldn't recognize his body even after seeing it multiple times. Later, his aunt identified him because she had raised him after his parents passed away.

We have two small children. What will we do now? Where will we go? Everything is lost. My little children have become orphans at such a young age. How will I raise them with a father's love and care? I demand justice for Amanat's murder. They deliberately killed my husband. I demand the death penalty for them. I don't know how I will survive the rest of my life without my husband."

Proposed Assistance

1. Taking responsibility for raising the martyr's orphaned children.
2. Providing the martyr's family with either a monthly allowance or a one-time financial aid.
3. Arranging permanent housing for the martyr's family, as they currently lack a permanent residence.
4. Helping the martyr's wife, a doctor, to resume her medical practice in any hospital.
